The Royal Mail Steamer Canada arrived here at noon to-day, after a rough and tedious passage. She left Liverpool on the 18th of January, and brings one week's later news from all parts of Europe. Her dates from London are to the 17th ult.

Up to the hour the Canada sailed nothing had been heard in Liverpool of the American mail steamer Atlantic, which sailed from Liverpool on the 28th of December, and has now been out thirty-six days Everything in regard to her fate was mere conjecture. ly filled with speculations relative to the exciting topic likely to engage the early attention of Parliament. They are stongly in favor of a reduction in taxation. Among the most prominent articles named are the window and paper duties.

FRANCE.—Louis Napoleon appears to have gained for the time being a complete mastery over General Changernier and the National Assembly.

The National Assembly in acknowledging the right of the Executive power to dispose of the military command, blames the use made of that right, and declares that the General is chief of the army of Paris and deserves the title to confidence which the National Assembly testified to him. On the sitting of the Assembly on the 3d of January an unquiet feeling prevailed among all classes, and the Assembly was crowded to excess. An amendment had been proposed and will probably pass. It is stated that the Assembly had no confilence in the new Ministry. At the latest account Lamertine was making an able address in defence of the President.

GERMANY .- The advices from the Dutches is that the Holsteiners have made unconditional surrender to the King of Denmark. Through the instrumentality of Austrian and Prussian Commissioners, the army has been disbanded. The chief members of the Staadtholdt have retired to Hamburg.

Nothing is yet known definitely of the proceedings f the Dresden Conference. Little doubt appears to be entertained that the result will be the recon ciliation of the old diet in Germany.

It is affirmed that a central power, with a large army at its command, has been resolved upon. The report of an early Congress at Dresden has been officially contradicted.

SPAIN.—Another weekly resignation of the Spanish cabinet has taken place, and this time it is said Narvaez has actually left Madrid. ROME. - Accounts from Rome and the Papal States epresent a growing apprehension and uneasiness a-

UNITED STATES FUNDS .-- On the 29th ult.. there was in the several government depositories the sum of $12,209,564 82, belonging to the United States.

She will probawhich he, either in his own right, or in the right of any other person or persons whomseever, either as guardian, attorney, agent or trustee, or in other man-lests in to-day.

Sir Henry Bulwer has just established a conspicu-ous title to the post which he has been selected to fill. At a banquet, crowded by enthueinstic New Englanders assembled in celebration of their most famous anniversary—Forefathers' Day—he outshone even A. nerican eloquence upon American topics, and so blied his delighted audience with the tropes of thetoric and the brilliances of metaphor, that he fairly carried the field before him. Yet he had no easy task to perform. Mr. Webster had anticipated every favorite apostrophe, and had led his countrymen thr the history of two hundred and thirty years to that moment of pride with which the moiety of a century was closing But no sooner had Sir Henry warmed

They could well afford to join hands in congratulation and compliment. At this marked period of history and chronology there are but two civilized governments in the world, the citizens of which could solemnize such a festival as that reported from New York; and the events of the last two years have amply shown that a constitutional monarchy and a constitutional republic differ only in political terms when contrasted with military tyrannies or democratic experiments.

When M. Guizot elucidated for the benefit of his countrymen the principles of successful revolutions, he gland in 1688, and in America in 1776, and he franky confessed that forms of government signified little so ong as the securities of good administration were supplied by the self-denial, forbearance and moderation the people concerned. No governments can be either durable or prosperous without the submission of indisons liable for taxes under this act, and who have gally declared. There exists in the U. States, no less than under absolute monarchies, a party discontented of political dissent has lately been carried to such a pitch as to elicit suggestions for the abrogation of the constitution itself. But the great body of Americans are sound in their convictions and clear sighted in their views. T. ey have had their 10th of April, like ourselves, and, after a short struggle and a great deal of noise, they declared in the theatrical riots that the magistracy should rule the mob, and in slavery agitation that the constitution should rule the country.

But it was not the Declaration of Independence or the foundation of the Republic which the New Engcalculated to unite in emotions of common pride the Englishmen of the Old World and the New. Two time when the religious convulsions of Germany were inaugurated by the great battle of Prague, a handfull flower" barque, after a perilons and stormy voyage across the Atlantic deep. On a piece of rising ground they built a row of small tenements, with a common store house between them. Such was the origin of New England-a glorious topic, it must needs be owned, for justifiable declamation. These 41 families are now represented by 3,000,000 souls. From a single port of that settlement, where neither book nor net existed, there now issue annually 600 ships, manned by 16,000 seamen, to lid in law, with the bond of such clerk, and the Court capture the mightiest monsters of the deep. The capital of the colony contains nearly 156.000 within its walls; supports 16 daily and 50 weekly newspapers, and maintains 250 public carriages, employing 1,600 horses, irrespective of 7 railways, each of which upon an average conveys 1,000 persons per day. Such is the picture of modern Boston as delineated on the last anniversary of Pilgrim's Day; and happy it is for England and America when their representatives can unite in expatiating on these wonderful statistics, instead of awakening the injuries and forgotten echoes of Bunker's Hill.

> ocean, not only the forms of good government, but the principles of good citizenship. They never built upon political theories, or affected any change except upon sound reasons and by soher means. They did not substitute a Republic for a Monarchy in deference to any maginary code of rights antecedent to recorded laws, but when, in pursuance of settled convictions, they had reluctantly renounced an allegiance, they made the best provisions in their power for administering the Government themselves Little was changed beyond the form of the Executive. They devised no new reations between man and man, nor did they deem themselves competent to recast the frame of civil society. They retained every institution and practice which could be accommodated to a Congress, instead of a King. Far from extemporising new laws, they preserved in their reverence, even the least desirable butes of the old, and have only just now reformed their system of procedure when we, their older brethren, are confessing a like necessity, and acknowledging the goodness of their example.

> These were the principles which preserved them .-Amid a variety of temptations, apparently infinite when viewed from this side of the Atlantic, but perhaps less serious when more closely contemplated, they have always acklowledged that private opinions must yield to the recorded will of society at large, and that no community can maintain a political existence where every citizen claims the right of promoting by violence his own speculative conceits.

We believe Mr Webster was substantially justified in treating as already exploded the resent agitation for the dissolution of the Federal Union. There is indeed, something so unprecedented in this enormous aggregation of States and Territories that it is impossible to arrive : t any probable conclusion respecting the future destinies of America. The weights on the two seaords are now so immense that the Constitutional fabric must needs be exposed to severence from its own gravitation alone. The thirteen States of the Union have already become three-and-thirty, if not more, for they increase as we write, and there is space and verge enough for converting the number into a hundred It is beyond all human power to calculate the prospects of a government to which one continent supplies territory and another population. What California is to America, America is to the whole world. No example has ever yet been seen of such a mighty and interminable conflux of peoples. Ireland alone sup-plies yearly to this extraordinary State the population of a first class city. San Francisco has increased more in two years than Brighton in fifty. The treasure of the new teritory have attracted immigrants in equal numbers from the two proverbial extremes of the orld-from China and Peru; and yet by some wonderful process the system of the Union appears to absorb and assimilate to its constitution these various and conflicting elements. No speculator can prognosticate the end of such a prodigious experiment, or prophecy the eventful decisions of a Chamber in which the del egates of California and New Mexico will meet the representatives of Florida and Maine. But thus much we may at least say, that the American Union is now discharging a providential part in the progress of the world, and that if the possible modifications of its poli-tical constitution are but effected in obedience to the principles which have hitherto mintained it, there can e no reason why either Americans or Englishmen The Chinese have a terrible mode of death in their criminal code—that is to kill the culprit by depriving him of sleep. Lately a scientific gentleman made a communication to the Asiatic Society of London on the subject. A Chinese merchant, accused and convicted of having killed his wife, was sentenced to die by the total deprivation of sleep. The execution took place at Amoy, in the month of June execution took place at Amoy, in the line last. The condemned was placed in prison under the surveillance of three guardians, who relieved each other at every alternate hour, and who prevented him from taking any sleep, night or day. He lived thus for nineteen days, without having slept for a single minute. At the commencement of the eighth day, his sufferings were so cruel, that he begged, as a great favor, they would kill him by stran-

FOR SALE.

A VALUABLE BUILDING LOT, with an Alley running from Front-street to rear of said Lot. The Lot for sale is in rear of the residence of the late SETH HOARD, which Lot fronts on Dock-street, with a front of 30 feet, running parallel with Dock-street, with a front of 30 feet, running westwardly 107 feet to Front-street; width of Alley, as per record, 11 feet. Any person wishing to look at the Lot can do so by calling on V. R. Peirsson, Executor, who will take pleasure in showing it, and explaining to any one the nature of the title. Mr. Hoard had the Lot in possession for the last thirty or thirty-five years, having bought it of an alien Frenchman, therefore I only claim title by possession. The above property is levied on by the Sheriff, to satisfy executions now out against the estate, and will be sold at the Court House on Monday, the — of March, (Court week,) at 20 'clock, P. M.

Resolutions in relation to the Vermont Resolutions, as follows:

WHEREAS, A message has recently been transmitted to the Senate by his Excellency David S. Reid, enclosing "Resolutions for the promotion of peace," forwarded by the Governor of Vermont as having passed the Legislature of that State: And whereas, the Legislature of the said State has recently passed an act for the nullification of an act of Congress passed at its last session, on which the peace and harmony of this Union mainly depended; therefore

Be it Resolved, That the Governor of this State be requested to send back to the Governor of Vermont the aforesaid "Resolutions for the promotion of peace," with the declaration that North Carolina knows too well what is due to herself to receive from a sister State resolutions of that charcharaction that North Carolina knows too well what is due to herself to recieve from a sister State resolutions of that character, when the State so adopting and transmitting them has been the first in the Confederacy to assume to herself the right of violating the Constitution of the United States. and bringing into jeopardy the peace and safety of the Union

A QUAKER'S LETTER.—Friend John, I desire thee to be so kind as to go to one of these sinful men in the flesh, called atterneys, and let him take out an instrument with a seal thereunto, by means whereof we may seize the outward tabernacle of George Green, and bring him before the lamb-skin men at Westminister, and teach him to do as he would be Catifornia, Saturday, Nov. 23, 1850.

We are here at the old place, Dwight city, making enough to get cer grub, without begging; that is pretty much all. For my part, I am not very miserable; it makes little difference where I am; I do not know that I have any children crying or suffering for my absence. As you say I have no wife to write to me, neither have I any to trouble herself at my absence, nor to curse me because I do not make my fortune and come home. If I had a wife she would be here with me, to wash my shirts and do my mending. I could make one very useful as well as ornamental, could make one very useful as well as ornamental, and where I could live, she could live also. The fact and where I could live, she could live also. The fact is, we are not so badly off in our tents as you may imagine; they are quite as comfortable as your three and four story bricks. One important feature in favor of our houses, is, there is no getting up stairs. We eat, drink, sleep on the floor, (beg your pardon) on the ground—it is all the same. If a snake or a mouse wishes to share with us on the same floor, we never dispute their right. They probably have the best right, being the oldest settlers. We have no history by which one can tell when they first took possession. The rainy season we conclude has commenced, as i has rained since Tuesday evening last, and we have, like the squirrels, put in our winter provisions and gone into our holes. The weather is not cold; were it not for the rain we should need no fire. I have seen many colder days than this at home in August. Yet there has been no time during the summer, when the ing licked by a d——d furener that's teares the heart mercury stood at 100 that we could not go on the top of a hill near us and see the mountains covered with snow, which I suppose has been there ever since Adam was a little boy, and will last as long as the world ladies, that nature, knowing WHIP AND SPUR .- To the discredit of manhood, be and the attempts which husbands make to justify Philemon Howell,—a strutty, fat, lubberly fellow, was brought up on the complaint of his wife, Martha Ann, who testifies that she is flogged by him, with a bamboo be met with in Lincolnshire, England and in Holrod, or rattan, every morning after breakfast. He land. thought that he might exercise himself in this way, in preference to using the dumb-bells. But Philemon, if he wished to facilitate the digestion of his morning meal, would have found the dumb-bells much better adapted to that purpose than his wife Martha Ann who is any thing else but a dumb belle, -as the whole neighborhood can testify. The State House bell, when struck, is not more sonorous than this lady — On being questioned by the Mayor,—Howell (the heartless tyrant) declared with the greatest effrontery, that he whipped Martha Ann "because she would not cut her toe nails." A murmur of indignation was heard throughout the court-room. "Yes, sir," said Howell, in a bold, pompous tone—"I licked her on that very account. She might as well wear gaffs, like a gamefowl, for a more immoral set of toe-nails I never did see on any thing human ;-and she seems to take a pride in 'em too .- for she declares she wont have 'em cut, on no account. I might as well lodge with a sheporkepine, your honor; and I'm scratched worse now, than if I had been traveling over the prairies, bare-foot, among the prickly pears and wild brier bushes.

I though! I had as good a right, to use the whip with This attempt at a joke did not raise even a smile among the indignant audience. The caitiff was held to bail for good behavior. We hope Martha Ann will take his own hint and procure a pair of iron gaffs, or a regular pair of dragoon's spurs to give him a more effectual scratching. It is the only way to touch the

The following story was sent to us by a friend ours who vouches for its correctness: I give you an incident in the life of your correspon dent, Freaner, which took place in 1840, when he reat such a place as Austin then was, and as affairs then were in Texas, that he had more brains than dimes, nor must it be thought that he was not a gentleman because he had a hard shake of an ague as his per dien

In this dark stage of his eventful life he had the good fortune to meet a Kentuckian who resided there pretty much in the same situation as to dimes, but for-tunately exempt from that ungentlemanly malady, He was also more fortunate in having a house, but equally unfortunate in having a wife to feed. The man of brains and ague found a home with the freehearted Kentuckian; but it finally became a matter o serious consideration and discussion how to provide food. They tried cutting cedar, which then aboun-ded in the vicinity, but that speculation did not suc-ceed. Matters were a serious aspect After much discussion in solemn conclave, it was determind to try their luck at a turkey roost. Perseverance is always rewarded, and at the first hunt they killed nine good fat gobblers. The ague man was despatched forth-with to the town with four of the finest of the turkeys on his back to sell, whilst his friend remained to make preparation for the demolition of the good things expected. No sooner, however, had the messenger de-parted than a numerous herd of prairie wolves, scen-ting the game he bore on his shoulders, followed in the blanket and fairly writhed in agony of soul.

"It's an infernal lie, you scoundrel!" said the reviving patient. "You're a cussed sight worse than I ever could be;" and he leaped from the bed. "You cheated me twice yourself, you cussed hypocrite!" roared the furious invalid—and he fairly turned his friend out of doors.

The horse-jockey was abroad the next day, and soon commenced sending his boys to school, and reforming his own manner of life. He was changed from the very hour that the prayer was made at his cured is milital similibus curantur—or elegantly one shake cured the other.

to be a little jealous of their neighbors on the South.
The Oregon Spectator says:
"The press of California, generally, are delighted with the idea of inhabiting a State. California is called, by some, the 'El Dorado State,' by others the 'Eureka State,' by many the 'Golden State.' From

Whipped by a Foreigner. Not a hundred years ago, the Native Americans had a grand procession in the good city of drab colours and brotherly love, and the first and foremost, at the very head and front of all the crowd, marched a youthful specimen from the "first flower of the airth and gem of the say."

Jimmy—that was his name—was a good and patrio-tic native, and, as I said marched along as proudly as the best of them; but, unluckily for his peace, not so much of mind as of body, his father espied him from the top of a house, where he had just arrived in company with a hod of brickbats. Now, the elder Jimmy was no lover of the natives but, on the contray, mor-

I have often heard people say they had found the place where So omon dug his gold, and I think I have found one of them, for there is none left. There are mighty few Solomons left now-a-days, or this country would not have so many fools coming to it. I was one of the fools, yet I came here with my eyes op en, expecting nothing, and I have not been disappointed. But I am not troubled; I would as soon live here as anywhere in the country. There is no part of the world that I have seen that is pleasanter than this same California, or where a man seen was a confectable of the country of
